Past performance is not indicative of future results. Investments in small companies carry greater risk than is customarily associated with larger companies for various reasons such as narrower markets, limited financial resources and less liquid stock. Performance is based on representative accounts and stated net of fees unless otherwise stated. Returns reflect the reinvestment of dividends. The Russell 2500 Growth Index® is an unmanaged index that measures the performance of the small-to-mid (SMID) cap segment of the US equity market. The Russell 2500 Growth Index includes the Russell 2000 Growth Index plus the smallest 500 mid-cap companies from the Russell 1000 Growth Index based on a combination of their market cap and current index membership. It includes those Russell 2500 companies with higher price-to-book ratios and higher forecasted growth values. One cannot invest directly in an index. Lisanti SMID Cap Growth Composite contains fully discretionary portfolios investing primarily in the common stock of SMID (small/mid cap) U.S. companies that have above average growth potential, but also above average risk potential. This strategy aims to deliver a total return through capital appreciation of SMID (small/mid cap) companies which carry greater risk than is associated with larger companies for various reasons such as narrower markets, limited financial resources and less liquid stock. For comparison purposes, the composite is measured against the Russell 2500 Growth Index. The Russell 2500 Growth Index measures the performance of the small to mid-cap growth segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes those Russell 2500 companies with higher growth earning potential as defined by Russell's leading style methodology. The Russell 2500 Growth Index is constructed to provide a comprehensive and unbiased barometer of the small to mid-cap growth market. One cannot invest directly in an index. The firm's SMID (small/mid cap) strategy may be significantly overweight or underweight sectors relative to the benchmark; it contains 50-70 holdings, on average, versus 2,500+ for the Russell 2500 Growth Index, its benchmark. Therefore, the strategy can be significantly overweight individual stocks relative to the benchmark. It can also hold stocks outside the benchmark that meet the criteria of the investment process. Companies in the firm's SMID (small/mid cap) strategy will generally have higher earnings growth than the index. Results are based on fully discretionary accounts under management, including those accounts no longer with the firm. Past performance is not indicative of future results.
