The Fund's return assumes the reinvestment of dividend and capital gain distributions. For the period reported, some of the Fund's fees were waived or expenses reimbursed; otherwise, total return would have been lower. Glossary of Terms:

Alpha Measures the difference between a Fund's actual return and its level of risk as measured by beta. An alpha of 0.5 implies the fund performed 0.5% better than the market would predict. The figure is calculated on a three-year basis relative to the benchmark. Beta Measures the Fund's volatility relative to the overall market. A beta above 1 is more volatile than the overall market, while a beta below 1 is less volatile. The beta in Returns-Based Statistics is calculated by taking the variability of the monthly portfolio returns versus the market over 12, 36, and 60 months. The beta in Fund Facts is the volatility of the individual securities in the portfolio against the Russell 2000 Growth Index. Estimated 3 Year EPS Growth is the portion of a company's profit allocated to each outstanding share of common stock EPS growth serves as an indicator of a company's profitability. Price-to-Earnings Ratio (forward) calculates the price of a stock divided by its earnings per share. Sharpe Ratio A risk-adjusted measure calculated using standard deviation and excess return to determine reward per unit of risk. The higher the Sharpe Ratio, the better the Fund's historical risk-adjusted performance. Standard Deviation A measure of the degree to which an individual probability value varies from the distribution mean. The higher the number, the greater the risk. Upside/downside capture is the statistical measure of an investment managers overall performance in up/down-markets; it evaluates how well an investment manager performed relative to an index during periods when that index has risen/had dropped. An upside capture ratio of over 100 indicates a fund has generally outperformed the benchmark during periods of positive returns for the benchmark. Meanwhile, a downside capture ratio of less than 100 indicates that a fund has lost less than its benchmark in periods when the benchmark has been in the red. Weighted Average Market Capitalization is the value of a corporation as determined by the market price of its issued and outstanding common stock.
